Von Zac Bharucha : A dab of Pink in the Grey Bank (English Edition) before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised A dab of Pink in the Grey Bank (English Edition):

Kundenrezensionen Hilfreichste Kundenrezensionen 1 von 1 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. Funny but true Von Mihnea Mihai Sounds very familiar to people that work in viennese banks:). Interesting, funny and a must read if you are working in the banking system.

KurzbeschreibungIt's a funny book, it's a rude book. It pokes fun at Euroland banking practices and the side-effects of globalization through a first-person account. The European single currency has crashed. Imagine a Eurobank based in Vienna so mediocre and dull it made a tax return seem exciting by comparison. If you were an inmate how would you deal with boredom? Slip back in your chair, take up hobbies, gamble recklessly or discover new addictions? Beautiful new recruit Antonia Strang works at 'Grey' Bank. Her co-workers show signs of instability due to underemployment, or Euroemployment. She is recruited by a shadowy anti-corporate group and entices a computer programmer to join the plot to sabotage the European payments system. The goal is clear; topple the fat-cat banksters and roll back globalization. However, Antonia meets star trader Leopold Pornski, the man of money. He is different; handsome, successful, driven. She is attracted to him. She meets his sporty and alluring girlfriend Bianca who captivates her. Both of them covet her. As the deadline for release of the Pelican virus approaches, Antonia is confused and distracted and her sex life is out of control. She visits the 'brain doctor' for psychotherapy. Can Antonia hold it together, or will her lurid sexual exploits distract her from the task? Have fun reading and try to find the pop song titles concealed within the text.

ber den Autor und weitere MitwirkendeZac Bharucha lives in the Vienna woods but he is not a hobbit. Zac acquired twenty six years of experience dealing in financial markets. Three of those twenty six years were enjoyable and rewarding. So often the traits of those around Zac were very different from those to which he aspired. For the reality is that corporates are managed too oft by dull, slimy and bureacratic types. When Zac realized that it was over ten years since he last smiled in the workplace he had a Reginald Perrin moment. He ceased at once and began to write. Prised away from his favourite pen, Zac enjoys outdoor activites such as hiking, via ferrata climbing, cycling, skiing playing tennis and mowing grass.
