ber den Autor und weitere Mitwirkende I live in Northern Michigan with my husband and two beautiful kids. When I'm not busy refereeing 'potty talk' between my 5 and 6 year old; I enjoy reading, writing, crocheting, and knitting. As a family we love being outside. Northern Michigan's four seasons provide the perfect setting for camping and exploring the outdoors. I started writing as a way of dealing with the frustrations of my job. I tried journaling. As I sat staring at a blank piece of paper a story popped in my head. I started writing ideas, building characters, and scenes. Next thing I knew I had an entire book series. I had all the characters pictured and they've been clamoring to have their stories told. I write in the paranormal romance/suspense genre. I love a story with a strong female lead and her male counterpart. A 'big picture' element is critical. Something bigger than just the romance between two people such as; good vs. evil or saving an entire species from extinction. It adds great suspense in a story. Not to mention I love a strong heroine that takes on the world and kicks its ass.
