Romantische Geschichten der Regency ZeitVon Kibby HuntEs ist Don Millers 8 Variation mit den Charakteren von Pride Prejudice. Die Geschichten sind stimmig und zeigen ein romantisches Bild dieser Zeit in England mit unseren geliebten Protagonisten.Don Miller hat eigene Personen kreiert, die in allen Geschichten vorkommen, sodass man ein angenehmes Gefühl der Wiedererkennung hat. JAFF Fans werden diese Geschichten mögen.

Kurzbeschreibung This novel, in three parts, begins in Lambton when Darcy encounters Elizabeth Bennet in her granduncles store for the first time in almost a year. It assumes a major fire occurred at Pemberley, Darcys estate, a few weeks after Darcy and Elizabeth meet in Hertfordshire, and that he must depart, leaving their unresolved relationship behind. For those familiar with Jane Austens Pride and Prejudice, the fire occurs before Bingley hosted his first ball at Netherfield and before Darcys old nemesis, George Wickham, appeared in the local town of Meryton. Part one of the book explores the trials and tribulations of Darcy and Elizabeths relationship and introduces us to the Darcy twins. Elizabeth is injured while visiting Pemberley and must convalesce at Pemberley for several weeks. Elizabeths sister Kitty comes to stay with her and when she and Darcys sister, Georgiana, are introduced to one another, they find themselves to be kindred spirits. Eventually, Kitty goes to live with Darcy and Georgiana, and she and Georgiana become so close, many begin calling them the Darcy twins. Intertwined in Part one is also the story of Mary, Elizabeths next younger sister. Parts two and three, occurring the next year, describe the love adventures of Kitty and Georgiana after their debut in London Part two being Kittys story and Part three being Georgianas story. The Epilogue covers what happens to Lydia, the youngest of the Bennet sisters. Each part is written in the first person of the title character of that part.
