Dark LoveVon ReaWell at first English isnt my native language but I hope everybody will understand what I am trying to say!Dark Love is really Not a usual young adult romance, it starts completely different. Well most writer put something of their own soul in their books but usually as a reader you don't know what. It's normal that the characters are struggling through difficult situations but this one really was different for me. From the first moment on you really can feel how hard Nina's soul life is. Well at first I was really swallowing cause I thought the author truly picked a heavy theme for her age and she really went through it in a pure way. I have to admit I went through the same things like Nina in her age and it's still a fight for me, so I had the feeling I would meet my younger "me". But as more pages I was reading the more I felt for Nina like a big sister. I wanted to protect her cause from a point on she really got more and more problems and I always thought "Come on she went through enough things, please just let her take a break" but there was no break and you will like it!!! I had a few situations where I wanted to slap Andrew, her soulmate, hard in the face but in the next moment I just loved him as much as Nina did. Well I will not forget my own conversation with William Madsen, Andrew's brother! Yes you read right, a conversation with a fantasy character ;!!!! It was almost at the end when I thought "What the hell is going on with you William, does your head hit the floor hard?" and if you will read the book you all will know what I am talking about!!! At this moment I took a break and was running through my flat making a long lively conversation with him even when he wasn't answering :D!!! Well at last I wanna say Olivia Howe did really a good job with her book, she is a lovely young person and you will fall in love with her story. It is full of feelings and situations like a roller coaster and if you are a reader like me you will feel so involved in Nina's life!!!
