Amazing debut book! Von E. Ramer I'm not a horse person, but while reading this book, I fell in love with Thea Campbell's horse. I can see why the victim--a woman everyone loves to hate--wanted to buy Blackie. Who wouldn't? Still, that's not reason enough for Thea to kill her. She's got more pressing problems, in her accounting business and in her personal life. But both she and her horse are under suspicion, and the police don't know enough about the murdered woman's life to know what to look for. Plus, the victim's influential and notorious father has his henchman watching Thea. Someone has to do something...and it looks like the someone is Thea. If you like reading Dick Francis books, you'll love reading this book. From now on, Schreyer's books are on my to-buy list.

Kurzbeschreibung Thea Campbell goes out for revenge when the one person who is simultaneously the most likely and least likely candidate for thief steals her horse. But Olympic hopeful Valerie Parsons is past caring about being arrested. She's dead. At first Thea's horse is assumed to have killed the woman, but when the coroner determines it was a human hand and not a horse's hoof that ended Valerie's life Thea becomes a person of interest. Now intimidating people with little regard for due process are showing up on her doorstep looking to even the score. Toss in her wrecked love life, a sexy geology professor who stirs up more than dust, and an alleged psychic horse, and it soon becomes apparent that Thea's predictable life is now out of control. As she takes charge of clearing herself of the murder she discovers the victim had a knack for making enemies one of whom is Thea's ditsy sister. She pursues her investigation with more at stake than ever, and in a seedy biker bar comes face-to-tattoo with information that will lead the police to the real killer. She dutifully reports to the detective in charge. But Thea is wrong. As close to dead wrong as she ever wishes to get.

ber den Autor und weitere Mitwirkende Susan Schreyer lives in the great state of Washington with her husband, two children, a demanding old cat and an untrustworthy rabbit. The horse lives within easy driving distance. When not writing stories about people in the next town being murdered, articles for worthy publications, or blogging, Susan trains horses and teaches people how to ride them. She is a member of the Guppies Chapter of Sisters in Crime and is co-president of the Puget Sound Chapter of SinC. Death By A Dark Horse is her debut mystery. Susan would love to hear from you!
