Von Katie Fforde : Wild Designs before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Wild Designs:

Not Bad, but Life Skills is BetterVon Joi CardinalI found this Katie Fforde to be the second best of her works, full of enjoyable details about gardening in England and the Chelsea Flower Show, all expressed in Fforde's delightful, slangy modern British diction. Unfortunately, one soon tires of Fforde's self-centered and in this case unnecessarily martyred female characters and wonders why the men they keep pushing away come back for more. This results in predictable endings as well because one knows from the start that the women will come to their senses in the end and marry.0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. Not particularly interestingVon Hannah M. HureyI wasn't sure what to expect being that this was my first novel about the modern England. I guess I just am left feeling let-down. I was not drawn into the story at all. In fact, I found the plot a little too predictable. I also felt that Althea worried too much about her kids for almost half of the book. No real person worries that much and pushes off the man as many times as she did. I couldn't quite understand why Patrick kept coming back to her. It is a good book to read if you just want something for here and there, but don't waste your time if you want to get into the book and the characters. I found myself having to put the book down because I was feeling "bogged" down with reading it. I did finish the book, which does say that it has some redeeming qualities, but there are not many.1 von 1 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. Fantastic believable modern day romanceVon K. KnoxOnce again, Fforde comes through with a delightful, thoroughly modern English romance. The writing is light and happy feeling and the book will leave you with a smile.

KurzbeschreibungIt must be love. A wonderfully romantic novel from the No. 1 Sunday Times bestselling author of Recipe for Love, A French Affair and The Perfect Match.Althea is the mother of three strong-minded children - one of whom is a Buddhist - and owner of a finicky dog named Bozo. Saddled with too large a house (albeit in a beautiful Cotswold village), worrisome mortgage payments, a bossy younger sister and irksome ex-husband, Althea still manages to muddle through life comfortably enough. Until she loses her job. Seeking solace in her borrowed greenhouse, Althea decides to develop her passion for gardening. And when she wins the opportunity to design a garden at the Chelsea Flower Show with the unexpected help of gorgeous architect Patrick Donahugh, it looks as though Althea may have unearthed a new man as well as a new career...Pressestimmen"A delight...Althea copes with single-mom tribulations with such grace and wit that you wish she could move in next door." --"Detroit Free Press" "A delicious romantic romp." --"Booklist (Starred )" "Old-fashioned romance of the best sort...funny, comforting." --"Elle" A delight...Althea copes with single-mom tribulations with such grace and wit that you wish she could move in next door.
